R.A.D. SYSTEMS OF SELF DEFENSE • INSTRUCTOR DEVELOPMENT

Replicating Adverse Dynamics

Instructor Certification

March 11–12, 2027 (Thursday & Friday) • Lee County Meeting Center • Opelika, AL

COURSE OVERVIEW

Simulation Training for the Self-Defense Educator. Replicating Adverse Dynamics is the R.A.D. Systems simulation-training certification for R.A.D. instructors and personal protection specialists. Created by R.A.D. founder Lawrence N. Nadeau, a pioneer in simulation training, this reality-based, scenario-driven program teaches you to safely replicate the adverse dynamics of a real confrontation in women's self-defense classes, so the physical defense options taught in R.A.D. Basic Physical Defense are practiced under realistic pressure.

WHAT YOU WILL LEARN

- Explores the most critical issues of simulation training, concentrating on productive drills and scenarios, implementation of those drills and scenarios, supervision, and safety.
- Covers situational dynamics in a reality-based, simulation scenario-driven format, from one-on-one hand-to-hand confrontation to multiple-subject encounters and weapon defense training issues.
- Teaches instructors to expand their program capabilities and reach the next level of reality-based intensity.
- Prepares graduates to conduct dynamic, realistic, and safe simulation exercises in any self-defense training venue.
